LIBRARY POLICY (4)

COLLECTION DEVELOPMENT

Summary

The goal of the Loudoun County Public Library is to provide the citizens of Loudoun County with a range of materials in a variety of print and non-print formats to meet their informational, cultural, educational, and recreational needs and interests.

To meet this goal, the Library has developed procedures for selecting, evaluating, re-evaluating, and withdrawing materials. The intents of the procedures are to assure that the collection reflects contemporary ideas as well as traditional points of view and that materials are available in diverse media.

The Library endeavors to provide a range of opinions, majority and minority, on all subjects and does not exclude materials on the basis of the author's or producer's point of view. The Library also attempts to avoid collections that reflect inordinate responsiveness to a single point of view.

Individual use of library materials is a private and personal matter. All citizens are free to reject for themselves materials of which they may disapprove; no citizen may restrict the freedom of use and access for others. Responsibility for the reading, listening, and viewing of library materials by minors rests with their parents or legal guardians and not with the library staff. Selection of library materials is not inhibited by the possibility that materials may come into the possession of children.

Suggestions from the public regarding selection, retention, or reconsideration of materials are encouraged and are reviewed promptly.

The Library Board of Trustees hereby endorses the American Library Association Library Bill of Rights and the Freedom to Read Statement on equal access for minors and interprets these statements to include all library materials regardless of format. Responsibility for the selection and removal of books and other library materials is delegated to the Director, who may delegate that responsibility to other library staff.

Books and materials are selected according to intrinsic merit, subject treatment, community interest, and contribution to a balanced collection in the Library. No single standard of suitability can be applied in all cases.

The volume and nature of requests for access to library materials by members of the public is a significant factor in selection. Flexibility, open-mindedness, and responsiveness are exercised during the evaluation process.

LIBRARY POLICY (4)

COLLECTION DEVELOPMENT

Materials are selected to present a variety of opinions on a subject and are judged as a whole rather than on isolated passages.

Collection Maintenance

The Library may dispose of any materials, cataloged or uncataloged, by transfer of ownership or discard, as staff deem appropriate. Unusable items transferred to the ownership of a library support group may be sold at the discretion of that group.

Outdated materials, unnecessary items, books no longer of interest or in demand, unused duplicates, and worn or damaged copies will be removed. Materials in poor condition or containing obsolete information discourage use of the Library.

In accordance with library guidelines, staff will make every effort to transfer items in usable condition but no longer needed in the Library to local community groups or organizations or to library support groups.

Materials that still have potential usefulness may be transferred to a larger library or special collection. Titles considered to be classics in their field will be available in the system.

Items deemed lost or missing are withdrawn from the Library's holdings.

Gifts

The Library reserves the right to decide use, condition of display, and final disposition of all gift material it receives.

Gifts are considered for acceptance on the same basis as materials for purchase. The cost of processing and the availability of shelf space are also factors in determining the acceptance of gifts.

The Library may provide a receipt acknowledging the number of donated items, but will not attempt to estimate their value.

The Library may forward items deemed unusable to library support groups or outside agencies/organizations. Gifts will not be returned to the donor.

Adopted 12/12/91
Revised 1/23/95
Reaffirmed 6/17/15

LIBRARY POLICY (5)

CONFIDENTIALITY

In accordance with all federal, Virginia, and local laws, confidentiality of all patrons' library use will be maintained. In the case of children under 17, parents or legal guardians shall have complete access to their minor child's records in order to prevent the Library from placing unnecessary obstacles between parent and child.

FACILITIES USE POLICY

Summary

The Mission of the Loudoun County Public Library is to be the community's information center, providing free and equal access to a full variety of library resources and innovative technologies to enhance the quality of life and meet the informational, educational, and cultural interests of the entire community. The following policy, governing the use of library facilities, reflects this Mission.

The Library makes available public facilities, as defined in this policy, on an equitable basis, regardless of the beliefs or affiliations of individuals or groups. Library facility use does not constitute the Library's endorsement of the beliefs, ideas, or policies expressed by organizations or individuals using the space.

"Library facilities" refers to space in and around all Library buildings, including lobbies, meeting rooms, grounds, parking lots, and unspecified library spaces.

In all library facilities, library-sponsored programs and activities take precedence over other activities. Use of library facilities by outside organizations or groups may not interfere with regular library operations or services.

Facility users and library patrons must comply with the Library Rules of Conduct Policy and applicable rules/guidelines for specialized spaces and programs; any individual(s) who fails to abide by these policies, rules, and guidelines may be asked to leave the Library and/or lose the privilege to use library facilities. In addition, all facility use must adhere to all applicable laws, including the Code of Virginia, the Codified Ordinances of Loudoun County, and any town ordinances within town jurisdictions.

In accordance with the Library Rules of Conduct Policy, no solicitation is allowed at the Library. Groups/individuals using library facilities may not approach patrons while in library facilities or on library grounds. Communication between group representatives and the public is permitted when initiated by the public. No donations may be required or solicited. Failure to abide by established laws, policies, and guidelines may result in a group/individual being asked to leave the Library and/or losing the privilege to use library facilities.

There is no charge for the use of library facilities by government, civic, educational, and cultural groups or organizations. Permission to use any library facilities must be obtained in advance from the branch manager or his/her designee. All facility use must follow this policy and any applicable guidelines.

LIBRARY POLICY (6)
FACILITIES USE POLICY

The branch manager (or designee) reserves the right to refuse groups the use of library facilities whenever, in his/her best judgment, the use does not conform to this policy. Available space varies significantly among branches and not all branches can accommodate use by civic, educational, and cultural groups or organizations at all times.

The name, address, and phone number of the Library may not be used as the official address of any organization using library facilities, nor may any non-library group using library facilities publicize its activities in such a way as to imply library sponsorship.

Loudoun County Government and the Library are not liable for damages caused to the user or his or her property while using library facilities, and Loudoun County Government and the Library will be held harmless from any liability to third parties for injury caused by the group or any persons or groups while using library facilities.

Lobbies and Unspecified Library Spaces

In order to maintain a welcoming environment and ensure free and unimpeded access to the Library and its services, the use of lobbies will be limited to non-partisan voter registration and blood drives. Partisan, political, and religious activities are prohibited, as are fundraising or sales of any kind.

The individuals or group sponsoring the activity must obtain approval in advance from the branch manager (or designee); the purpose of the activity and the dates and times the activity will take place must be provided. The branch manager (or designee) will allow only one activity at any time.

The individuals or groups sponsoring the activity must be in attendance at all times. Those in attendance may not approach or initiate conversation with any library patron.

Unattended collection bins, chairs, tables, or booths may not be set up in lobbies, except by the Library, library advisory boards/friends groups, the Loudoun Library Foundation, and federal, commonwealth, or county government agencies.

This policy does not apply to libraries that have no lobby separate from the library itself, including Gum Spring Library, Lovettsville Library, Middleburg Library, and Sterling Library. At these locations, the branch manager (or designee) has the authority to approve where and when non-partisan voter registration and blood drives may occur.

LIBRARY POLICY (6)

Meeting Rooms

The Library's meeting rooms are available during normal operating hours. Federal, state, county or town governments may use the meeting rooms for official government business at other times as authorized by the branch manager. The rooms can only be reserved up to two months in advance.

Only library-related groups and other government departments and agencies, either sponsoring or co-sponsoring a program, may charge an admission fee or sell a product. All meetings or programs must be open to the public.

For-profit groups or individuals may use the rooms under the following conditions:

1. A room use fee will be paid when the room is reserved.
 2. No admission charge, request for donation, or tuition may be required or solicited.
 3. No products or services may be sold.
 4. Personal information from program attendees may not be solicited.
- (See Schedule of Fees for profit-making organizations and individuals.)

Library Grounds

Library grounds, including all space owned/controlled by the Library outside of library buildings, is public space subject to regulation as part of this Facilities Use Policy.

Smoking and use of tobacco products are prohibited on library grounds and in all library buildings.

Bicycles, skateboards, and skates may be used on library grounds. "Board-sliding" and related tricks on library property (including but not limited to curbs, stairs, bannisters, benches, chairs, tables, and waste receptacles) are prohibited. Board-sliding and related tricks damage library property and are vandalism as defined by the Code of Virginia, § 10.1-1004.

Users of library grounds must deposit all waste into waste receptacles, or remove the waste from library property. Animal waste must be picked up and disposed of in receptacles or offsite.

Signs, emblems, banners, pennants, etc. may not be posted on library grounds or library building exteriors, except by the Library, library-related groups, or Loudoun County Government agencies.

LIBRARY POLICY (6)

FACILITIES USE POLICY

Petition signing is allowed on library grounds with prior notification to and approval by the branch manager (or designee). All petition activity must be conducted outside library buildings at a minimum distance of 25 feet from building entrances.

Parking Lots

Library parking lots are reserved for users of library facilities. Use of library parking lots for other purposes is prohibited. At facilities with shared parking lots (Gum Spring Library, Rust Library, Sterling Library, and Library Administration), parking for users of library co-tenants is permitted.

Displays and Exhibits

Display cases and exhibit areas are used for library-sponsored displays presented to inform the public of the wide range of issues, events, and interests within the community.

Permanent Public Art

The Library Board of Trustees supports the placement of permanent public art in library facilities. These works of permanent art shall become the property of the Library. Public art is defined as publicly accessible art that is an integral part of the facility, enhances the library environment, and engages the community. Review and selection of permanent public art shall follow procedures established by the Library. The Library Board of Trustees shall have the final approval of all permanent works of art placed in library facilities.

Public Art Exhibits

The Library provides a venue for local artists to exhibit work in a public space. These exhibits allow the public to view local artwork throughout library facilities. Exhibits by artists rotate among the library facilities and are chosen by staff to reflect a variety of media. Exhibits will be appropriate in scale for the space and size of the library facility and will be community oriented.

Handouts and Bulletin Boards for Community Information

Handouts and publications from community groups and individuals may be displayed at the Library if space permits.

The posting or distribution of a particular item does not indicate that the Library endorses any organization, cause, or activity.

FRIENDS OF THE LIBRARY AND ADVISORY GROUPS

Philosophy Statement

A "Friends of the Library" or "library advisory board" organization constitutes an important community resource for public libraries. It draws from the community and can increase understanding of, and support for, the library within that community. As in any volunteer organization, members are provided with an opportunity to use their time, skills, resources, and contacts in a worthwhile community endeavor, while receiving recognition for their efforts.

Friends and advisory groups generally work outside of the library setting making library strengths and needs known to the public and governing or funding authorities; for example, the Library Board of Trustees or the Loudoun County Board of Supervisors. Friends and advisory groups may raise money through book sales, sponsorship of special events, or other means at the discretion of the Library Board of Trustees and staff. The role of the Friends or advisory group is as a support group, rather than a policy-making body. Suggestions for service improvements may be directed to the local branch manager.

Standards

1. There shall be a written statement of purpose and by-laws on file which shall be in accordance with the Policies of the Library Board of Trustees.
2. Funds raised by library support groups shall not be a substitute for adequate local funding.
3. Funds raised by library support groups shall be maintained in an account separate and distinct from the Library's operating accounts. Such accounts shall be administrated by the appropriate support group.
4. Gifts made to the Library by Friends, by advisory groups, or by the Loudoun Library Foundation shall conform to Library gift and fiscal policies, and shall not be used to dictate library policy.

LIBRARY POLICY (15)

INTERNET USE

Mission

1. The Loudoun County Public Library, the community's information center, provides free and equal access to a full variety of library resources and innovative technologies to enhance the quality of life and meet the informational, educational, and cultural interests of the entire community.
2. The Library's Mission is based on fundamental principles of public library service in the Commonwealth of Virginia, which include: providing information, as broadly and as completely as possible, to as many citizens as it can; individuals should be held accountable for their actions; and parents have the ultimate responsibility for deciding what their children read and what library services they receive.
3. In support of its Mission, the Loudoun County Public Library offers Internet access equipment to library customers to offer the widest possible diversity, views, and expressions, ensuring access to all avenues of ideas to as many library customers as it can.

The Internet

The Internet is an unregulated medium connecting people and information sources from around the world, forming a constantly changing community. Not all sources on the Internet provide information that is current, accurate, unobjectionable, or complete, and some materials are obscene and/or harmful to minors. The Library is unable to control or monitor the content of materials on the Internet.

Internet Access Service

1. The Loudoun County Public Library offers its customers access via computer equipment to the Internet. The Library does not provide electronic mail accounts, Usenet newsgroups, or real-time discussion/chat.
2. "Filtered" forms of Internet access are provided only on the Library's computer equipment. Filtered access attempts to screen out content deemed obscene and/or harmful to minors. It is by no means foolproof and may inadvertently allow content intended to be blocked or block unobjectionable content.
3. Monitors may have privacy screens installed.

LIBRARY POLICY (15)

INTERNET USE

4. An adult decides which form of access to use. The parent or legal guardian of a minor will decide if the minor may access the Internet via the Library's computer equipment and whether access is to be filtered or unfiltered.
5. There may be times when the user may not be able to access a given site on the Internet due to circumstances beyond the control of the Library.
6. Library staff will be glad to assist customers in using the Internet. In the event library staff is not familiar with specific programs or capabilities, the customer will be responsible for learning the needed skills.

Conditions Governing Internet Use

1. Adults must sign a Loudoun County Public Library Adult Internet Use Agreement, indicating they have read the Library's Internet Use Policy and agree to abide by it and future versions of the policy as a condition of using the Library's Internet access equipment.
2. A minor's parent or legal guardian must sign a Loudoun County Public Library Minor Internet Use Agreement, indicating he/she has read the Library's Internet Use Policy and agree that the minor may use the Library's Internet access equipment, that the minor will abide by the Internet Use policy and future versions of the policy as a condition of the minor using the Library's Internet access equipment, and elect whether the minor's access is to be filtered or unfiltered. A signed agreement without an election is not a valid agreement and the minor will not be allowed to use the Library's Internet access equipment.
3. Any violation of this policy or Library Rules of Conduct Policy may result in suspension of Internet access privileges.

NAMING OF LIBRARIES

The Library Board of Trustees may provide recommendations for the naming of branches of the Loudoun County Public Library to the Loudoun County Board of Supervisors, which has final approval. The Library Board of Trustees can name collections, additions, rooms, or other significant areas within a library branch without approval from the Loudoun County Board of Supervisors. When taking these actions, the Library Board of Trustees will follow the guidelines set forth in the Loudoun County Board of Supervisors Finance and Government Services Committee's Resolution Relating to County Memorials and the Names for County Parks, Sites, and Facilities (adopted March 17, 1992), as well as the following additional guidelines:

1. The library will carry a name that reflects the geographical area in which it is located or for which it serves in order to be understood by patrons; for example, Lovettsville Library.

Exterior signs will identify each library as such; for example, "The Lovettsville Library." The library may be further identified as "A Branch of Loudoun County Public Library."

2. In exceptional circumstances, the Library Board of Trustees may consider naming libraries, collections, additions, rooms, or significant areas within a library after a donor provided that the donor paid for a substantial portion of or the entire cost of construction or renovation, or has donated a significant amount of money to the library system.
3. In exceptional circumstances, the Library Board of Trustees may consider naming libraries, collections, additions, rooms, or significant areas within a library in honorable recognition of an individual or group, provided the following criteria are met:
 - a. Commemorative naming in honor of individuals must be in memoriam at least one year after the death of the individual.
 - b. Commemorative naming may only be for civic or charitable organizations (not for corporate or religious organizations).
 - c. Commemorative naming is in recognition of outstanding achievement, distinctive service, or significant contribution by the individual or group to the library, local, or national community.

LIBRARY POLICY (26)

THE FREEDOM TO READ

The Library Board of Trustees endorses the following joint statement, issued in 1972 by the American Library Association and the Association of American Publishers, and subsequently endorsed by a number of organizations¹ listed.

The freedom to read is essential to our democracy. It is continuously under attack. Private groups and public authorities in various parts of the country are working to remove or limit access to reading materials, to censor content in schools, to label "controversial" views, to distribute lists of "objectionable" books or authors, and to purge libraries. These actions apparently rise from a view that our national tradition of free expression is no longer valid; that censorship and suppression are needed to counter threats to safety or national security, as well as to avoid the subversion of politics and the corruption of morals. We, as individuals devoted to reading and as librarians and publishers responsible for disseminating ideas, wish to assert the public interest in the preservation of the freedom to read.

Most attempts at suppression rest on a denial of the fundamental premise of democracy: that the ordinary individual, by exercising critical judgment, will select the good and reject the bad. We trust Americans to recognize propaganda and misinformation, and to make their own decisions about what they read and believe. We do not believe they are prepared to sacrifice their heritage of a free press in order to be "protected" against what others think may be bad for them. We believe they still favor free enterprise in ideas and expression.

These efforts at suppression are related to a larger pattern of pressures being brought against education, the press, art and images, films, broadcast media, and the Internet. The problem is not only one of actual censorship. The shadow of fear cast by these pressures leads, we suspect, to an even larger voluntary curtailment of expression by those who seek to avoid controversy or unwelcome scrutiny by government officials.

Such pressure toward conformity is perhaps natural to a time of accelerated change. And yet suppression is never more dangerous than in such a time of social tension. Freedom has given the United States the elasticity to endure strain. Freedom keeps open the path of novel and creative solutions, and enables change to come by choice. Every silencing of a heresy, every enforcement of an orthodoxy, diminishes the toughness and resilience of our society and leaves it the less able to deal with controversy and difference.

Now as always in our history, reading is among our greatest freedoms. The freedom to read and write is almost the only means for making generally available ideas or manners of expression that can initially command only a small audience. The written word is the natural medium for the new idea and the untried voice from which come the original contributions to social growth. It is essential to the extended discussion that serious thought requires, and to the accumulation of knowledge and ideas into organized collections.

LIBRARY POLICY (26)

THE FREEDOM TO READ

We believe that free communication is essential to the preservation of a free society and a creative culture. We believe that these pressures toward conformity present the danger of limiting the range and variety of inquiry and expression on which our democracy and our culture depend. We believe that every American community must jealously guard the freedom to publish and to circulate, in order to preserve its own freedom to read. We believe that publishers and librarians have a profound responsibility to give validity to that freedom to read by making it possible for the readers to choose freely from a variety of offerings.

The freedom to read is guaranteed by the Constitution. Those with faith in free people will stand firm on these constitutional guarantees of essential rights and will exercise the responsibilities that accompany these rights.

We therefore affirm these propositions:

1. It is in the public interest for publishers and librarians to make available the widest diversity of views and expressions, including those that are unorthodox, unpopular, or considered dangerous by the majority. Creative thought is by definition new, and what is new is different. The bearer of every new thought is a rebel until that idea is refined and tested. Totalitarian systems attempt to maintain themselves in power by the ruthless suppression of any concept that challenges the established orthodoxy. The power of a democratic system to adapt to change is vastly strengthened by the freedom of its citizens to choose widely from among conflicting opinions offered freely to them. To stifle every nonconformist idea at birth would mark the end of the democratic process. Furthermore, only through the constant activity of weighing and selecting can the democratic mind attain the strength demanded by times like these. We need to know not only what we believe but why we believe it.
2. Publishers, librarians, and booksellers do not need to endorse every idea or presentation they make available. It would conflict with the public interest for them to establish their own political, moral, or aesthetic views as a standard for determining what should be published or circulated. Publishers and librarians serve the educational process by helping to make available knowledge and ideas required for the growth of the mind and the increase of learning. They do not foster education by imposing as mentors the patterns of their own thought. The people should have the freedom to read and consider a broader range of ideas than those that may be held by any single librarian or publisher or government or church. It is wrong that what one can read should be confined to what another thinks proper.
3. It is contrary to the public interest for publishers or librarians to bar access to writings on the basis of the personal history or political affiliations of the author. No art or literature can flourish if it is to be measured by the

THE FREEDOM TO READ

- political views or private lives of its creators. No society of free people can flourish that draws up lists of writers to whom it will not listen, whatever they may have to say.
4. There is no place in our society for efforts to coerce the taste of others, to confine adults to the reading matter deemed suitable for adolescents, or to inhibit the efforts of writers to achieve artistic expression. To some, much of modern expression is shocking. But is not much of life itself shocking? We cut off literature at the source if we prevent writers from dealing with the stuff of life. Parents and teachers have a responsibility to prepare the young to meet the diversity of experiences in life to which they will be exposed, as they have a responsibility to help them learn to think critically for themselves. These are affirmative responsibilities, not to be discharged simply by preventing them from reading works for which they are not yet prepared. In these matters values differ, and values cannot be legislated; nor can machinery be devised that will suit the demands of one group without limiting the freedom of others.
 5. It is not in the public interest to force a reader to accept the prejudgment of a label characterizing any expression or its author as subversive or dangerous. The ideal of labeling presupposes the existence of individuals or groups with wisdom to determine by authority what is good or bad for others. It presupposes that individuals must be directed in making up their minds about the ideas they examine. But Americans do not need others to do their thinking for them.
 6. It is the responsibility of publishers and librarians, as guardians of the people's freedom to read, to contest encroachments upon that freedom by individuals or groups seeking to impose their own standards or tastes upon the community at large; and by the government whenever it seeks to reduce or deny public access to public information. It is inevitable in the give and take of the democratic process that the political, the moral, or the aesthetic concepts of an individual or group will occasionally collide with those of another individual or group. In a free society individuals are free to determine for themselves what they wish to read, and each group is free to determine what it will recommend to its freely associated members. But no group has the right to take the law into its own hands, and to impose its own concept of politics or morality upon other members of a democratic society. Freedom is no freedom if it is accorded only to the accepted and the inoffensive. Further, democratic societies are more safe, free, and creative when the free flow of public information is not restricted by governmental prerogative or self-censorship.
 7. It is the responsibility of publishers and librarians to give full meaning to the freedom to read by providing books that enrich the quality and diversity of thought and expression. By the exercise of this affirmative responsibility, they can demonstrate that the answer to a "bad" book is a good one, the answer to a "bad" idea is a good one. The freedom to read is of little consequence when the reader cannot obtain matter fit for that reader's purpose. What is needed is not only the absence of restraint, but the positive provision of opportunity for the people to read the best that has been thought and said. Books are the major channel by which the intellectual inheritance is handed down, and the principal means of its testing and growth. The defense of the freedom to read requires of all publishers and librarians the utmost of their faculties, and deserves of all Americans the fullest of their support.

We state these propositions neither lightly nor as easy generalizations. We here stake out a lofty claim for the value of the written word. We do so because we believe that it is possessed of enormous variety and usefulness, worthy of cherishing and keeping free. We realize that the application of these propositions may mean the dissemination of ideas and manners of expression that are repugnant to many persons. We do not state these propositions in the comfortable belief that what people read is unimportant. We believe rather that what people read is deeply important; that ideas can be dangerous; but that the suppression of ideas is fatal to a democratic society. Freedom itself is a dangerous way of life, but it is ours.
